VICTORY GROWS MORE SWEEPING

advice from the Speaker's friends assure at least seven votes as a result of yesterday's primaries.

Roosevelt is elated. Oyster Bay, April 14.—"We hit them midding hard," said Colonel Roosevelt to-day of his victory in the Pennsylvania primaries.

This Colony was greatly elated, and exhibited a heap of telegrams sent him, giving him details of the result and expressing congratulations.

Colonel Roosevelt was asked whether in his opinion his nomination was now probable. "I would not say that," he responded. The result in Pennsylvania, he said, pleased him particularly because he considered it an expression of popular opposition to the "bosses."

"They have heard a good deal from me on the stump," he added, "and they'll hear more."

Colonel Roosevelt said some of his opponents were misrepresenting the number of delegates elected for President Taft and himself. He said he had been considering preparing a formal statement in regard to this matter. "At the present time," he continued, "I think that the delegates really instructed are about evenly divided. I think it is about 150 each."

The Colonel gave Mississippi as an example of what he had in mind. He said he believed that the entire Mississippi delegation was for him, and yet his opponents claimed it all for the President.

"The contest in that case," he added, "is on the Taft side."

He asserted that he had twenty-two delegates from Missouri, although some of his opponents conceded him none. In New York, he continued, he already had ten delegates, with ten others ready to vote for him, and he expressed the belief that at the national convention he would have twenty more New York votes, provided it was apparent to these twenty delegates that he could have half of the delegates to the convention.

At 4 o'clock to-morrow afternoon Colonel Roosevelt will start on what probably will be one of the most extensive trips of the campaign. According to the program, he will spend Wednesday and Thursday in Nebraska, and Friday and Saturday in Kansas. Beyond that no definite arrangements have been made. The Colonel is expected to speak in Sioux Falls, S. D., and in Little Rock, Ark. On the way back, he said, he hoped to go to North Carolina.

Wants Colonel to Debate. Washington, April 14.—Representative Gardner, of Massachusetts, to-night gave out copies of a letter addressed to Colonel Roosevelt, in which he invites the Colonel to a joint debate on the principles at issue in your campaign during the former President's forthcoming speaking tour in Massachusetts.

"It seems to me that the real issues in this campaign are being lost sight of, and that an endeavor is being made to link the name of President Taft with that of Senator Lorimer and other unpopular persons whom the President has always opposed," wrote Mr. Gardner.

The letter bears date of to-day and is addressed to the Colonel at Oyster Bay.

Swanson Will Be Speaker. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Harrisonburg, Va., April 14.—Senator Claude A. Swanson will deliver the address at the Bridgewater College commencement on May 30.

ALMOST AN OCCULTATION

Venus and Moon Will Be Very Close Together To-Night. Washington, April 14.—Venus and the moon will be very close to-morrow night, almost to what the astrologer sharp calls an occultation, but it will be visible only in parts of Florida and Georgia. If the weather is clear enough on a line drawn from Texas through Arkansas, Ohio and New York, however, Venus may be seen about eight minutes from the edge of the moon. Astronomers at the Naval Observatory here say there will not be an absolute occultation. On Wednesday there will be an eclipse of the sun, visible only in the eastern part of the United States. The New England States, except a part of Connecticut, and a portion of New York, will be the only part of the United States in which the eclipse will be visible completely.

Jipijapa Is the Real Thing This Year

Translated, You Must Have a Panama Hat if You Expect to Shine.

The question of who shall be elected to the Administrative Board has nothing on this one: "Is it cheaper to have last year's straw hat kalsomined and made almost as good as new and have it turn a sickly yellow by the end of the month, or to invest a week's salary in a brand new jipijapa, and by that purchase end it?"

Jipijapa is right. Sounds dangerous, like frangipani and smells like garlic, but all the same it's the correct title for the Panama hat. And right here as well as anywhere it may be stated that like imported Scotch wools, which are woven on the shores of the Merina, most of the Panama hats that are shown in the Richmond shops and the other American shops, for that matter, are made in Ecuador, Peru and Colombia. It goes hard to puncture a respectable tradition, but the truth never hurts, and Panama hats are really Colombian anything else. The jipijapa was misnamed the Panama because most of the early shipments came by way of the Isthmus, and nicknames stick.

While the United States is still the largest purchaser of jipijapas, their popularity seems to be on the wane, and they possess the virtue of being able to survive a street car smash-up with only a few dents, but it is rule the wearer after such an accident has no further use for his hat. The late King Edward had one that cost $500. Its texture was so fine that it could be folded up during meals into a package not larger than a watch. A hat like that would make good in vaudeville, but it couldn't be used as a fan on the bleachers. The last is a quality that every straw hat must possess before it can hope to win its way into popular favor. The wide-brimmed lid with generous fanning area, says Beatrice Barefactors, is going to be it this summer. A few of them were on the job at the Richmond-Rochester games last week. The afternoon parade on Broad Street yesterday contained a fair sprinkling of straws. Their owners wore them timorously and with misgivings, for the real straw hat season doesn't open until next Thursday, when the pennant race in the Virginia League begins with a rush.
